California is going wild on bicycles. It is stated that $2,000,000 worth of them have been sold in that State this season.

The Charleston chicken and egg eaters would be very sad indeed if they didn't have the North Carolina hatcheries and the N. C. hen to draw upon.

Col. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, hasn't figured much this year as a school commencement orator. In fact he hasn't figured much lately any way.

The New York World is poking fun at a Long Island clergyman who is endeavoring to extirpate the mosquitoes by pouring kerosene oil on the swamps in his neighborhood.

The impression that the Italians who immigrate to this country are not a progressive people must be dismissed. They are dropping the stilletto and taking to the revolver.

It is said that a meteoric stone travels with a velocity of 60,000 yards per second, while a ball from a modern cannon doesn't travel more than 600 yards per second. Perhaps this will account for the fact that meteors are often seen by people far distant from each other at about the same time.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says the opinion among Democrats in that city is that notwithstanding Secretary Calisle's refusal to become a candidate for the U. S. Senate he will be forced to accept the position. Generally speaking it doesn't require thumb-screws to make men accept positions like that.

Phoebe Johnson, an old colored woman of Parksville, N. Y., knocked the stuffing out of a ghost the other night which confronted her at a lonely spot on the highway. She blazed away with a rock and broke it in two the rock hitting the boy who had covered himself with a sheet and climbed up on another boy's shoulders, to play ghost and frighten people.

Harry Haywood, who is under sentence of death at Minneapolis, Minn, for the murder of Miss Ging, his sweetheart, has had the cheek to demand of the insurance companies the $10,000 insurance on her life, the policy for which had been assigned to him, and to secure which it is supposed he killed her. The executors of her estate, however, very properly object to this proceeding.

The Charleston News and Courier quotes a prominent produce dealer of Charleston as saying that North Carolina and Tennessee furnish 75 per cent. of the produce that goes into that market. The presumption is that the farmers of South Carolina are too busy raising cotton to raise stuff enough to feed Charleston.

They are reducing the murder of infants to a fine art in London. Within two weeks the bodies of sixteen infants have been found, and within the past eight months 102 have have been found in the same district, nearly all killed in the same way—strangled with a cord—leading to the belief that it is done by people who follow that business for pay.

A Connecticut man says there are 96,000 crazy people in this country only 6,500 of whom are under supervision. There are thousands of men in this country who think that England should be allowed to dictate our financial policy who are at large without any supervision at all, and every one of them ought to be in a lunatic asylum.

Hon. Cassius M. Clay, Jr., left Louisville in disgust and declared that he was out of politics for good. Judging from the way the Convention panned out, he doesn't seem to have been in very deep. It is remarkable how soon some men sour on politics when politics sour on them.

If Mr. Justave Schwab, chairman of the "Sound Money" Committee of the New York Chamber of Commerce keeps on, he may yet become famous, but before that time arrives he may change his name to something more tony than Schwab.

They are level-headed men who manage the public schools in Switzerland. In warm weather, when the mercury reaches a certain notch in the thermometer the children are dismissed and sent home to look for cool places.

A Quadricycle.

The W., N. & N. R. R., the Newbern Journal says, has added a beautiful quadricycle to its equipment. It is a light but strongly built affair. The weight is only fifty pounds. It fits the track just as a hand-car would, but the rider sits and propels it just as he would a bicycle, while there is a wire basket for whatever is wished to be carried. A speed of about twenty miles per hour with comparatively small effort is attainable with it. It will no doubt be found quite a convenience.

City Court.

Sandy McKoy, colored, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was required to give bond in the sum of $25 for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court.

Fruits are scarce and in demand. A small supply of peaches and apples sold at 5 to 10c per quart; plums, blackberries and huckleberries, 5c per quart. No cantaloupes or watermelons yet on sale, except a few of the Georgia variety, stale and insipid.

The Seaside Club.

The Executive Committee of the new club recently organized for the erection of a club house on the beach, have been earnestly at work since their appointment. They have purchased a large lot in a very desirable location, the deed for which will be executed as soon as the title is examined. Proper steps are being taken for the incorporation of the club.

Plans for the club house have been selected that will provide for the members every desirable accommodation and give them a building that will be their pride and an ornament to the beach. Mr. H. E. Bonitz, the architect, devised the plan, and as soon as he can make the working plans and specifications, bids will be secured from contractors. These bids must be handed in to the committee by Friday, July 5th, as a meeting of the club is called for that night. Contractors desiring to submit bids should see Mr. Bonitz at once.

The committee have found their work very onerous, but have prosecuted it continuously, keeping in view the best interests of the club, and hope that what they have done will meet the approval of all members. With the hearty support of the membership, the committee feels that the work ahead will be accomplished with comparative ease.

The STAR is glad to know that this club has been so quickly organized, and has such flattering prospects.

Weather in the Cotton Region.

The mercury was in the nineties yesterday everywhere in the cotton belt, the average maximum for the districts ranging from 90 to 92 degrees. In the Wilmington district, the maximum temperature at stations was reported as follows: Raleigh 90; Charlotte, Goldsboro, Lumberton, Weldon 92; Greensboro 90; Newbern 88; Wilmington 85. There was abundant rainfall throughout the cotton belt; Bainbridge, Ga., reported 1.80 inches; Longview, Tex., 1.80, and Sherman, Tex., 2.30.

The Weather Bureau synopsis issued yesterday morning said that heavy rain had fallen in New England, Georgia and portions of Florida, nearly four inches having fallen at Titusville; also, in portions of Texas, Western Arkansas and Eastern Kansas, with a few light showers in other sections. Light rain was reported Friday night from nearly all portions of the cotton belt, the heaviest being from the Augusta and Savannah districts.

The Saw Mills.

The Cape Fear Lumber Co.'s mill, shut down for a week or more, owing to the scarcity of logs, will resume operations Monday, and expects to put on the full force about September 1st.

The Peregory Lumber Company will also resume Monday, having been shut down a couple of days, on account of the small supply of logs.

The Chadbourn and Parsley mills are running steadily, but the Wilmington Lumber Company has been closed for some time.

AFFAIRS IN RALEIGH.

STATE TREASURER WORTH AND THE ARRINGTON TRIBUNAL.

Serious Cutting Affray—Captain Charles M. Cooke Appointed on the Gettysburg Battlefield Commission—A Question of Interest to Building and Loan Associations—Important Changes in Management of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad System.

[Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., June 29.

The Governor has appointed Captain Charles M. Cooke a commissioner to visit the battlefield of Gettysburg and designate the places occupied by his command.

The Governor was invited to appoint several commissioners by the Gettysburg Battlefield Commission; he will make the other appointments soon.

The Governor has made two requisitions on the Governor of Virginia for prisoners now under arrest in that State. Aaron Gurst is serving a term at Houston, Va., which expires July 10th. He is wanted in Guilford county for larceny. Holland Rhodes is now in custody in Loudon county and will be carried to Graham to answer a charge of larceny.

The question has arisen as to whether Building and Loan Associations shall list their shares of stock issued by them or the holders of them. In this county the shareholders have been requested to list their shares by the tax listers. Section 4 of the Revenue Act would indicate that the Association must list and pay for all the taxes as an Association, while section 38 requires the owners of the shares to list for county purposes, etc. The Attorney General has had many inquiries on this subject and the matter being such an important one, he has given his opinion to Treasurer Worth about the matter. He says: "There is no conflict between sections 4 of the Revenue Act and section 38. From my reading of the sections the shareholder in no case is required to list his shares, but the corporation does so for him." A good many shareholders in this city have already listed in this county, being required by the list takers to do so.

The first cotton bloom has come in. It comes from Johnston county.

Treasurer Worth is very much put out because he has not heard from the Attorney General in regard to honoring the warrants in favor of Campbell and Purnell. There is but one course for him to pursue. The Code directs the Treasurer to pay all warrants legally drawn on the Treasurer by the Auditor. Legally drawn is equivalent to according to law. The warrants in favor of Campbell and Purnell are undoubtedly legally drawn. There was some talk of the Treasurer refusing to recognize any authority lower than the Supreme Court. The Code says the Attorney General shall be the legal adviser of the executive officers in the absence of a decision by the Supreme Court. Mr. Worth seems to have but one course to pursue.

Last night Ed. Haley, a barkeeper, was cut by W. D. Brown, a shoemaker. The cutting happened in the southern part of the city. Haley's cut is five inches long, extending from his left ear to his mouth. Brown skipped last night, but delivered himself up this morning. He gave $300 bond until the trial Wednesday. Haley's wound will not prove fatal unless erysipelas or inflammation sets in. It was a close call for Haley. The cutting arose from a dispute about a woman.

Under date of July 1st circulars have been sent out from Portsmouth signed by Vice President St. John, of the Seaboard Air Line announcing important railroad changes as follows:

Mr. W. W. Gwathmey, Jr., is hereby appointed Chief Engineer of the railroads comprising the Seaboard Air Line, with headquarters at Portsmouth, Va.

The office of Superintendent of Roadway of the lines comprising the Seaboard Air Line is abolished from this date.

"For purposes of increased efficiency in the service, and to the intent that a more direct responsibility shall attach to those in charge for the proper conduct of business to be transacted, and in order that due attention may be given to the necessities, as well as the economies of the properties comprising the Seaboard Air Line, it has been decided to divide the lines operated into divisions, by name and territory, as follows:

"The First Division will be in charge of Mr. T. W. Whisnant, with title of Superintendent, and headquarters at Portsmouth, Va. It will comprise all roads of the company between Portsmouth, Va., and Raleigh, N. C., 268 miles.

"The Second Division will be in charge of Mr. William Moncure with the title of Superintendent, and with headquarters at Raleigh. It will comprise the following lines: Raleigh and Hamlet, N. C., Moncure and Pittsboro, N. C., Hamlet and Gibson N. C., Wilmington and Rutherfordton, N. C. Total 385.6 miles."

"The Third Division will be in charge of Mr. E. V. McBee, with the title of Superintendent and General Agent; headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., and in his duties as General Agent, Mr. McBee will have charge under the Traffic Manager, of this Company's freight and passenger interests at Atlanta and in territory heretofore covered by Mr. W. L. O'Dwyer. The Third Division will comprise roads from Monroe to Atlanta; 272 miles.

[Special Star Telegram.]

Treasurer Worth says he never intends to cash vouchers held by Chief Justice Campbell and Attorney Purnell. He says the Attorney General will defend him if necessary. Mr. W. A. Guthrie has written a lengthy letter to Mr. Worth, endorsing his action.

Colored Baptists.

There will be a series of "Baptist mass meetings" held in this city at the Central Baptist Church, next week, beginning on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, July 2d, and continue one week, every day and night, conducted by Rev. J. J. Worlds, of Raleigh, under the State Board of the Baptist State Convention. The proceedings will be quite interesting to all. All the Baptist ministers, their members and Sunday school workers for a distance of fifty miles around Wilmington are invited to take a prominent part in the meeting. A most cordial invitation is extended to all ministers, churches, Sunday schools and people of the city, irrespective of denomination or race.

One Cent a Word.

Hereafter advertisements to go in our "Business Locals" department will be charged one cent per word for each insertion; but no advertisement, however short, will be taken for less than 20 cents.

This is a reduction from former rates and it is also a convenience to advertisers, who can calculate the exact cost of their advertisements, which must be paid for always in advance.

"1. Owing to failure to comply with the laws and regulations for the government of the State Guard, and upon the recommendation of the Inspector General, The Charlotte Division of the Naval Battalion of the N. THE

CAROLINA MUTUAL

Fire Insurance Company,

of Charlotte, N. C.

The CAROLINA MUTUAL is a strong NORTH CAROLINA Company. It is, however, a stock company, and issues absolutely non-participating and non-assessable policies. Its mutual feature consists in a charter provision, that one-third of its directors must be POLICY-HOLDERS who are NOT stockholders elected by the POLICY-HOLDERS; this is a very strong point, the policy-holders who have great interests at stake, have a share in the management of the Company, and will always know its condition. Better than this, the CAROLINA MUTUAL deposits all premiums received at this agency to their credit with the WILMINGTON SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY. This makes it practically a local company. The directors of the company are:

P. M. BROWN,
Of Brown, Weddington & Co., Wholesale Hardware.
E. B. SPRINGS,
Of E. B. Springs & Co., Fertilizers and Wagons.
M. P. PEGRAM,
Cash'r First Nat'l Bank of Charlotte.
B. D. HEATH,
Of Heath Brothers, Bankers.
SAM'L E. WHITE,
President Fort Mill Man'f'g Co.
A. C. SUMMERVILLE,
Lumber and Real Estate.
J. T. ANTHONY,
Wholesale Provisions and Grain.
JOHN W. MILLER,
Real Estate and Cotton Broker.
HERIOT CLARKSON,
Of Clarkson & Duls, Att'ys-at-Law.

These gentlemen stand among the wealthiest and most successful business men of North Carolina, and their names are a guarantee of the Company's honesty, conservatism and success. We heartily recommend the Company to the property owners of Wilmington. We also represent other good companies, and do a general insurance business. Come to see us.

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 30, 1895

ISSUES THAT MAY NOT BE ISSUES.

At present there are two issues in national politics, one real, the other prospective, both in the future dependent upon conditions which may divest either or both of the importance that attaches to them now. The former of these—the money question—is at present a living issue, and unless conditions change, will be a year hence the absorbing issue of the day. This the Republican leaders want to and are doing their utmost to avoid. The other—the tariff question—they have been endeavoring to make the issue, for the double reason that they must have some issue, and they hope with this to divert the attention of the rank and file of their party from the money question, which they regard as a dangerous one.

If the battle were to come off now between the two great parties it would be a very perplexing one to the leaders of both for neither would know just what position to take on the money question, the Democratic leaders because their party is very much divided on it now and the Republican leaders because of the fear that their party might become as divided as the Democratic party is. As perplexing as the condition would be if the test were to be made now the longer it is delayed the more perplexing the condition will become for the Republicans, for however much it may embarass the Democratic leaders it must embarass them quite as much, and every day that elapses will make the tariff question, upon which they were placing their reliance that much the less of an issue. They are beginning to realize this if we may judge from the utterances of the leaders and their organs. They sailed into power a year ago on the general depression that prevailed throughout the country when business was stagnant and the country was filled with smokeless chimneys and unemployed men, the result, they declared of Democratic "tariff tinkering," from which they predicted all manner of prospective evils. Calamity was their stronghold, they played it for all it was worth and successfully. They won a Congress on it and many State Legislatures which meant some more Republican Senators and the disappearance of the Democratic majority in the Senate. The wish of their hearts was that the business depression might last, that the smokestacks might continue cold, and the workers idle, that they might play the calamity racket in the campaign of '96, as they had done in the campaigns of '94.

But the tide of returning prosperity has disappointed this cherished hope, and belied the confident predictions of disaster they had made when the tariff bill was was under discussion. Instead of continued and prolonged paralysis of business, and workless and hungry thousands, the fires have been lighted in the factories and shops, many of which have been closed for two years, the workmen by thousands were called to their posts of labor again, and as if to knock the last prop from under the edifice that was constructed upon calamity, the workmen who were going to be "ruined" by the "Democratic tariff" are getting voluntary advances of wages, making them equal to and in some cases higher than the wages they received under the McKinley tariff before the industrial depression began.

This is bad for the calamity builders, for it deprives them of their contemplated stock in trade. It is estimated that up to this time the wages of over 300,000 men have been voluntarily increased, in some cases two or three times, within the past six months, and many of the industries are running not only full time, but extra time. The price of iron has gone up, and wool, although on the free list, is higher than it was under the McKinley tariff, and there is more demand for it.

That's bad for the calamity howler, who, if this thing goes on, will be left "without an occupation and a name" before the next campaign opens, with facts enough staring him in the face to muzzle him and utterly discredit all the lurid predictions of disaster that the chambers of Congress, the forum and the press rang with when the Wilson tariff was under consideration.

Without the tariff what will the Republican manipulators do for an issue? They stand aghast at silver, and there is nothing else in sight unless they can arrange some way to hitch on to jingoism, and flutter the old flag, "old glory," as some of them call it.

All the indications now lead to the belief that the conditions that will obtain a year hence will eliminate the tariff as a factor in the next campaign only in so far as the Democrats will point to it as a justification and vindication of their more sensible, business-like and just policy.

What effect changing conditions may have on the money question is not yet so apparent. With the demand for labor and the increase in wages, there has also been a considerable increase in the price of farm products, all of which, of course, makes times better and lessens the strain on the people. If this should continue there will be less restiveness and the disposition to agitate the money question will grow less. In other words, the same general improvement which will eliminate the tariff question will have its influence in eliminating the silver question, and divesting it of much of its present intensity, a possibility which Democrats should take into consideration before taking extreme positions on one or the other side. Future developments may very much modify the present conditions and make easy of solution problems that now seem impossible to satisfactorily solve.

MINOR MENTION.

On a recent visit to Washington, Hon. James E. Cobb, of Alabama, was interviewed on the political situation in that State, and is quoted as follows:

"The one issue in Alabama politics at present is the silver question. I am in favor of the free coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1, and I see no necessity for waiting for an international agreement. I believe that this is the sentiment of the Democratic party in Alabama, but this does not mean that the Democrats of my State are not as firmly determined to have a sound currency as are the so-called 'sound money' men. We believe that free coinage would actually make the commercial values of the two metals equal at that ratio. We think that the demonetization of silver in 1873 caused the decline in the value of the white metal, and that again making silver a primary money would restore its old value. I am sure that, did the Democrats of Alabama for a moment think that free coinage would result in a depreciated currency, they would not for a moment hesitate in condemning it. There are no fiat money men in our party."

This is about as true and comprehensive a statement of the case as could be made, not only as to the free silver Democrats of Alabama, but of every other Southern State. The allegation that the adovcates of free coinage want a depreciated money to pay debts contracted in "sound money" is the veriest nonsense and an insult to the intelligence, as well as a reflection on the honesty and patriotism of as good and true men as stand on the face of the earth. Are the working men of this country imbeciles enough to want to sell their labor for debased money? or the farmers' fools enough to want to sell their cotton or their wheat, or corn or meat for debased money? Only a knave would say this, or an idiot believe it. The free coinage advocate does not believe that free coinage would debase the currency, but he does believe that rehibilitating silver would relieve it from the degradation to which it was subjected by demonetization in 1873, and would not only re-honor the coin but would raise the price of the bullion by again putting it among the coin instead of the merely commercial metals, or "junk," as Secretary Morton called it. The assertion that free coinage would make money "cheap" and therefore depreciate it, applies with as much force to any increase of the currency, whether by enlarging the circulation of the national banks, or by the establishment of State banks, so that to be consistent these anti-silver men must oppose any increase of the currency, no matter what the way proposed may be.

The Republican party is and always has been dominated by the money power of this country, and that power is opposed to any policy which would prevent the centralization of money and thus weaken its grip on the money volume. Therefore it is opposed to the free coinage of silver and also to State banks, which would become competitors of the national banks, which are a creation of the Republican party, and are the wards so to speak of that party. When State banks are suggested there isn't a Republican organ of small or large proportions that doesn't at once squeak or howl something about "wild cat" money, as if State banks were an entirely untried thing in this country, and as if it were an impossibility to devise a safe and sound system. But it wouldn't make any difference how safe and sound the State banks might be made they don't want them and don't want anything that might interfere with the money-lending monopoly the national banks have and have had since their establishment. In a speech recently before the Union League in Philadelphia, Mr. C. S. Patterson voiced the sentiments of the Republican leaders and statesmen when he said:

"Who made honest money in this country by driving the currency of the State banks out of existence? Why the Republican party, and it established a system of currency with gold and credit behind it—the national banking system. Who restored specie payments? The Republican party."

A gold-national bank-bond-anti-silver-anti-State bank parity is what this means, and it is, as far as it goes, a very good definition of orthodox Republicanism.

Commenting upon the introduction of American-made shoes and boots into the English market, the London Times quotes one of the largest manufacturers of boots and shoes in England as saying that he could not compete with American prices; that he could sell a dozen pairs of American make to one of his own, and that they so closely resemble the English make that the buyers can't tell the difference, but being cheaper, they sell more readily than the English boots and shoes. This is one of the results of free hides which enables the American manufacturer to buy the kind of leather he wants where he can get it cheapest and thus puts him on on equality with the English manufacturer, who has untaxed leather. American energy, tact, machinery and skill do the rest, and make the American manufacturer not only a formidable but a successful competitor right at the doors of the English manufacturer. What these do are shown by a statement of this same manufacturer quoted by the Times, when he said that the boot which it cost him from 1 shilling to 1 shilling and 1 penny a pair to make, could be made in America for 8 pence per pair. Give the American manufacturer a fair chance and throw him on his own resources and he can beat the world.

CURRENT COMMENT.

— The New York Times, the Savannah News and other organs of gold monometallism may countenance the effort of refining away the intention of the Financial Chronicle in raising money to influence public sentiment in the South, but the task will be in vain. Competent judges who have examined the model of the machine, express themselves as being confident that it will prove a practical success.

WHEN THE CURTAIN SOFTLY FALLS.

We're actors all, no matter when
Our several parts we play,
In the flush of life's sweet morning
Or the twilight of its day;
And some day will end the drama,
In the country or the town,
And the hand of life will gently,
Slowly ring the curtain down.

Every day our eager fingers
Turn some new, unsullied page;
To-morrow we may stand upon
Some unfamiliar stage.
We play our parts unceasingly
Before a smile or frown;
But in the end time surely rings
Life's varied curtain down.

We kiss, we quarrel, make up again,
It may be in the play;
The faded rose lies on the heart
When oft we must be gay.
The faded rose lies on the heart,
The singer gets the crown,
For in the midst of stanzas soft
The curtain stealeth down.

The child at play from flower to flower
Pursues the golden bee,
And, tired of chasing, falls asleep
Beneath the hoary tree.
Thus, childlike, we, the drama o'er,
For lover, king, and clown,
Await in peace the hand that rings
Life's golden curtain down.

The eyes that we have brightened from
The stage with speech or rhyme,
Will drop a tear for us when comes
The last act of our time;
And hands whose grasp we ne'er have felt,
Afar in distant town,
May wreathe a wreath for us when time
Hath rung life's curtain down.
Calmly the actor true awaits
The last words of his play,
His fame secure, his duty done,
He longs the restful day.
No jealousies invade his soul,
For love hath formed his crown,
And brighter gleams his stars as drops
Life's pictured curtain down.

ONE WAY TO LIVE CHEAPLY.

A Scheme That Was Developed by Gallant Colonel Wilk.

Joseph Tanski, the Polish refugee, narrates many stories of the shifts to which he and his fellow exiles were compelled to resort in order to keep soul and body together. None of these is more curious and interesting than one relating to his friend, Colonel Wilk, who had been decorated by the emperor of the French for gallant service in the French army, but who afterward found himself obliged to live upon 60 francs a month.

It was pretty tight work, and so Colonel Wilk had to confess, but one day he met with a strange bit of good fortune.

He had been out for a walk and was on his way home when a big Newfoundland dog came running down the street, pursued by a gang of boys and men, all armed with sticks. The dog, panting and terrified, ran straight toward Colonel Wilk and took refuge between his feet. The crowd drew near with loud and excited shouts.

"It is a mad dog! Kill him!"

A policeman, more courageous than the mob, stepped forward.

"Halt!" shouted the knight of the Legion of Honor. "The dog belongs to me. It is not mad."

His resolute air and perhaps the red ribbon in his buttonhole made an impression upon the policeman.

"Very well," he said, "since the dog is yours, lead him away."

So said, so done. Colonel Wilk took the dog home, washed and combed it, and then went with it to the butcher's to buy it some scraps of meat. For 25 centimes the butcher gave him a fine lot, and on his way home Wilk bought a few vegetables.

All these bits—bits of meat, bones and vegetables—he put into a pot together with a suitable quantity of water, and out of the pot both he and the dog made a sumptuous dinner.

The problem of living was solved. Day after day, as often as his purse ran low, which was pretty often, he bought bits of meat "for his dog." Nobody was the wiser, and the Polish exile and his dog lived upon 35 centimes a day, and the knight of the Legion of Honor could once more receive his friends like a man of the world.

A Dilemma.

Friend—Have you completed your novel?

Author—Not yet, I am sorry to say. I have made six couples happy for life, but I have still got an old general and a shoemaker's widow on my hands, and somehow they won't match.—Fliegende Blatter.

HUNTING WHALES.

IT IS DESCRIBED BY ONE WHO HASN'T DEPENDED ON BOOKS.

Old Geographies Responsible For Much Misinformation—How the Big Fish Is Captured In the Pacific and Arctic Grounds—Exciting Situations.

The ex-hunter of big fishes told about whale hunting as was whale hunting.

"There—she—blows," he says, is the way that landsmen who know all about whaling from reading geographies and story books would make the hail. But those who seek the whale in his deep sea lair instead of in books tell about the sighting of the prey in these words, but with an inflection impossible to reproduce in print, "Oh, ——, b-l-o-wes!"

"It was in the old whaling bark Ohio, Captain Ellis," said the narrator, "that I made my first whaling voyage. That was back in 1886. It is Pacific and Arctic whaling that I am speaking of.

"When cruising in those waters in search of whales, a whaler always keeps three men aloft during the daytime. An officer of the ship and that functionary of a whaling expedition known as the 'steerer' take their places in the cro' nest, on the main, and another lookout is sent to the foretopgallant crosstrees. All three of the lookouts are furnished with marine glasses, and throughout their tour of duty aloft they carefully scan the horizon in all directions.

"There may be days and days, with never a cry from aloft, and then, on a sudden, will be heard the welcome hail to the deck of 'Oh, ——, b-l-o-wes!' The cry electrifies a crew as does, 'Sail, ho!' from a cruiser's masthead when an enemy is the quest.

"The captain immediately goes aloft and makes an examination of the spouter through his glass. In the Pacific and Arctic waters there are two kinds of whales that he wants and three kinds that he will have nothing to do with. The species he wants is the bowhead and sperm. The ones he does not want are the finback, humpback and sulphur bottom. These may have other names, but they are not known by any other to whalers.

"The captain is enabled to tell what manner of whale it is by the nature of its spout. The sperm whale is distinguished by the full, bushy sort of fountain which it projects into the air. If the spouts are at frequent intervals, and if the water is thrown high in a slender jet, the captain says nothing that is nice, descends from his perch, and the vessel plods along her way.

"But if the stream is low and much dispersed there is a bracing around of yards and a clearing away of whaleboats. All hands are called on deck, and four of the five boats are manned and sent in pursuit of the whale. One boat is always kept in reserve in case of emergency, but only enough men are kept on board to trim sail and work ship.

"Whales have a most acute hearing, and the swish of the boat through the water, even when propelled by silent canvas, is often enough to frighten a whale, and then he is off like a locomotive. Now, as for, oars and rowlocks such as are represented in this and most other pictures of whale capturing exploits, that is all rank absurdity. The splash of an oar would send a whale to the right about before you could get within a quarter of a mile of him. They are harder to creep up upon than are the wild deer of the forest.

"Therefore the noiseless sail is used if there is any breeze, and if there is not paddles such as the North American Indian uses in propelling his canoe are got out and the boat pushed toward the leviathan by cautious dips. Care is taken never to splash water, and the men move about in the boat in stockinged feet.

"A boat is never steered near a whale's head or near his tail. A blow from his tail would smash a boat into kindling wood, and his jaws are generally big enough to crush a boat as easily as a nutcracker can break a filbert. Care, therefore, is taken to steer clear of the dangerous extremities and to sneak alongside the monster's vast body.

"The steerer meanwhile has taken his station in the bow of the boat, the officer in charge being at the steering oar. The boat nears the big hulk of flesh, and when near enough to strike the steerer hurls the missile which he has held poised in air and aims to strike the whale just abaft the fin."

"The harpoon you are speaking of?" queried the reporter.

"Well, it is a gun and a harpoon combined. On the end of a short wooden shaft a detachable iron harpoon is fitted. On the head of the same shaft is fitted a dynamite gun, pointed at the end, but not detachable from the shaft. Harpoon and gun cut into the flesh at the same time. A sharp jerk backward detaches the harpoon, which remains fast in the whale, and at the same time explodes the dynamite cartridge.

"If the steerer's aim has been true, the crew have nothing more to do except to back water quickly and watch the monster's dying agonies. That sometimes happens, but most often the whale is only maddened by the wound, and, plunging under the surface with a maelstrom swirl which half swamps his puny enemy, starts away with the speed of an express.

"Then comes the excitement and the danger. The line which is fastened to the harpoon spins out so fast that the woodwork smokes where it rushes over the side, and heaven save any one who becomes entangled in the zippling coils! The whipping rings would cut a man in two or amputate a leg or an arm quicker than a cleaver could divide an apple.

"The line does not pay out without resistance, and enough of the whale's rushing gait is imparted to the boat to make the water foam and sputter as the craft dashes along. The steerer, hatchet in hand, stands ready to cut the line should the whale not stop before it all runs out. The last fathom is called 'the bitter end,' and when that is reached the hatchet falls; otherwise his whaleship would drag the boat under water.

"But the lines are so long that that does not happen often. The whale generally stops before it has run out. When he does, the line slackens, and then comes the supreme moment. No one knows where he is going to come up, and he is just as apt to come up directly underneath the boat as anywhere else. That has frequently happened, and very few boats or their crews have survived the happening."—Boston Globe.

LONGFELLOW'S FIRST POETRY.

He Was More Than Thirty When His First Volume Was Published.

Toward the end of 1836 he took up his abode in Cambridge, where he was to reside for the rest of his life—for 45 years. He was made to feel at home in the society of the scholars who clustered about Harvard, then almost the sole center of culture in the country. His work for the college was not so exacting that he had not time for literature. The impulse to write poetry returned, yet the next book he published was the prose "Hyperion," which apppeared in 1839, and which, though it has little plot or action, may be called a romance. The youthful and poetic hero, a passionate pilgrim in Europe, was, more or less, a reflection of Longfellow himself.

A few months later in the same year he published his first volume of poetry—"Voices of the Night"—in which he reprinted certain of his earlier verses, most of them written while he was at Bowdoin. Some of these boyish verses show the influence of Bryant, and others reveal to us that the young poet had not yet looked at life for himself, but still saw it through the stained glass windows of European tradition. The same volume contained also some more recent poems—"The Beleaguered City" and "The Reaper and the Flowers" and the "Psalm of Life"—perhaps the first of his poems to win a swift and abiding popularity. These lyrics testified that Longfellow was beginning to have a style of his own. As Hawthorne wrote to him, "Nothing equal to them was ever written in this world—this western world, I mean."

Certainly no American author had yet written any poem of the kind so good as the best of those in Longfellow's volume of "Ballads," printed two years later. Better than any other American poet Longfellow had mastered the difficulties of the story in song, and he knew how to combine the swiftness and the picturesqueness the ballad requires. His ballads have more of the old time magic, more of the early simplicity, than those of any other modern English author. Of its kind there is nothing better in the language than "The Skeleton In Armor," with its splendid lyric swing, and "The Village Blacksmith" and "The Wreck of the Hesperus" are almost as good in their humbler sphere. "Excelsior," in the same volume, voices the noble aspirations of youth and has been taken to heart by thousands of boys and girls.—Professor Brander Matthews in St. Nicholas.

accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accident.
The Housewife needs it for general family use.
The Canaler needs it for his teams and his men.
The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.
The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

THE HUSBAND.

At a Sorosis dinner recently the lady who responded to the toast "Our Husbands" gave the following verses:

Who weds because we are so dear
And then forgets—when it is here—
The anniversary every year?
The husband.

Who when he's donning evening clothes
Would with an angel come to blows
And lets the whole house hear his woes?
The husband.

Who sometimes makes us quail and quake
With tales about the bread and cake
His mother used to make and bake?
The husband.

Who calls the landlord with a frown
And then slips out and goes up town,
While wifey talks that landlord down?
The husband.

But when the clouds are dark and gray
And ruin seems not far away,
Who takes the helm and saves the day?
The husband.

Who grumbles lots, as well we know,
That here no wine shall ever flow,
Yet in his heart is glad 'tis so?
The husband.

And so, in water pure and clear,
Fit emblem of our sisters here,
I drink the health of those so dear—
Our husbands.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

"You see, my boy," said Uncle Hobart, "matrimony is a dangerous thing. You take a house for, say, a year, and if it doesn't suit at the year's end you give it up and take another. You buy a horse, and if it balks you send it off to auction to be sold. But with a wife it is altogether different. You can neither sell nor exchange her—it's a lifelong bargain."

"But, Uncle Hobart," said the nephew and heir apparent of that gentleman, "let's take another view of the matter. Suppose that she is all that is lovely, excellent and desirable?"

Uncle Hobart Renshaw rubbed his nose.

As an inveterate bachelor of five and fifty he was naturally inclined to take the less sanguine view of the case.

"Paul," said he, "it's of no use to argue the matter. A young man in love is a young man mad for the time being. If you've made up your mind to get married, not all the arguments in creation will avail against it. Only be sure you make a right choice. Remember how much depends upon it."

Paul Fontaine laughed good humoredly. Like all young men, he thought so much caution quite unnecessary.

"There are two sisters of these Lindleys, you say?" said Uncle Hobart reflectively, polishing his glittering spectacle glasses.

"Two, sir—Emily and Esther."

"Both of 'em pretty?"

"As twin blush roses, sir."

"There you go!" said Uncle Hobart testily. "Right into sentiment, just like a three volume novel."

"Well, sir, isn't it natural enough to compare a pretty girl to a beautiful flower? If I could think of any other comparison"—

"You needn't trouble yourself," interrupted Uncle Hobart. "What I want to find out is what they are like."

"Esther is bright and sparkling; Emily is all softness and refinement. Esther is a brunette, with the blackest hair I ever saw. Emily has chestnut curls and blue eyes, and a lovely, fair complexion."

"Exactly." Uncle Hobart hummed an old tune which had been popular in his youth:

Black eyes most dazzle at a ball;
Blue eyes most please when shadows fall.

"And which do you like best, Paul, eh?"

"They are both of them charming!" energetically answered the young man. "Upon my life, uncle, I sometimes wish that the Turkish system prevailed here, and that I could marry both of them."

"Difficult to decide which is the most fascinating?" questioned Uncle Hobart. "But the thing is, my lad, which will wash and wear the best for everyday life?"

"That is a question which the future will decide, uncle. Unfortunately we have no chemical test to decide the matter."

"Think not?" said Uncle Hobart dryly. "Look here, Paul, up to the present time you have only seen these girls through the chiaroscuro of visiting dress and company manners. What would you give to behold them as they really are—to get a peep behind the scenes?"

"Half that I am possessed of, uncle!" cried out Fontaine, with animation, "if only to be able to satisfactorily prove to you, sir, how pure and noble and high souled they are. But all this is nonsense. Of course it is an impossibility!"

"Nothing of the sort," said Uncle Hobart. "You say that up to the present these girls do not know me personally or of my connection with the board of health. Well, it is true that I am neither a wizard nor a magician, but I am what is quite as useful in this matter—a sanitary official. I go into people's back doors when I wish it. I stride remorselessly through their kitchens and cellars when I want to see for myself rather than trust my inspectors. I am at liberty to take a down stairs view of the world. Eh, young man, what do you think of that?"

Paul Fontaine stared.

"I don't understand how"—

"But you will, doubtless, when I tell you that the Lindleys' house is in my district; that I have decided to go there tomorrow morning to see personally that all the drainage is perfect. If you choose to volunteer a little help, I'll disguise you as one of my men and"—

"With all my heart, uncle!" cried the young man, with glittering eyes and heightened color. "I fear no ordeal to which you can subject Esther and Emily. Believe me, the metal will ring true!"

"Well, we'll see," said Mr. Renshaw. "In the meantime suppose you ring for tea."

Mr. Hobart Renshaw was a man of property, but he was also a man of peculiarities. One of these was to earn his borough surveyor's salary as honestly as if he depended on it for his daily bread.

People call him a miser, but little cared he for that. The widow, the fatherless and he that was ready to perish could tell a different tale, and Hobart Renshaw, quaint and eccentric though he was, could read the book of human character with an almost unerring eye.

* * * * * * *

"Run, Betty, run! It's that nuisance of a drainman again. It does seem to me as if he came about a great deal oftener than is at all necessary."

The Lindleys were people who kept up a grand appearance upon a comparatively disproportionate foundation. Their sitting room was elegantly furnished; their hall upholstered in Persian patterned Brussels, with rosewood rack and Gothic hall chair, but the kitchen was a gloomy, subterranean apartment, scantily furnished and uninviting in aspect.

Moreover, the Lindleys were struggling to keep up appearances on a moderate income, and Betty, the little workhouse girl, in her print frock and thick shoes, was the only servant they kept.

"Dear me! what is the young man sticking his nose in here for?" cried out Esther indignantly. "Does he expect to find drains in the fireplace or under the washtub?"

"Please, sir, the sir. This way, sir!" said Betty, clamping on ahead and turning open a cellar door, whence rushed out a blast of sepulchrally damp air.

But the one glance into the kitchen had been enough. Esther, in a greasy pink dress, and her hair in a bristle of curl papers, sat before a tray, with a bowl in her lap, eating a 10 o'clock breakfast, while her pretty feet, thrust into a pair of badly worn slippers, displayed sundry unmended holes, and a soiled pocket handkerchief tied around her neck did duty in place of the neat collar or frill generally supposed to be necessary.

Mrs. Lindley was bending over a huge kettle of bubbling and boiling preserves upon the range, and at the washtub stood a slight, trim figure, with an apron tied around her waist and sleeves above the elbow, Emily herself, scrubbing away with the energy of a laundress, and her shining hair wound in lustrous braids around and about her small head.

Uncle Hobart, following closely at the heels of his nephew, was just in time to hear Esther's petulant voice from the other room sounding shrilly on their ears.

"It's too bad, mamma! The toast is scorched to a cinder, and the coffee isn't drinkable. I must have some fresh made!"

"Oh, Ettie, don't!" coaxed Emily. "Mamma is so tired, and she has so much to do! Won't a glass of milk do?"

"No, it won't! I must have coffee, and decent coffee, too!" asserted the brunette, tapping her pretty foot on the floor and knitting her jetty brows.

"Then I'll make it," said Emily, "if you'll wait until I get these collars rubbed out."

"I'd be ashamed to turn washerwoman," grumbled Miss Esther.

"I'm not ashamed of anything that is useful!" cried Emily, with spirit, "when papa works so hard and the washing bills are so heavy. It won't hurt either of us to do a little honest work and spare mamma all we can."

"Do leave off moralizing and get my coffee!" snarled Esther, who had evidently risen in no amiable mood.

And the borough surveyor and his bogus assistant, having no excuse for remaining longer, heard nothing more.

Paul Fontaine was silent as he walked along the street, but Uncle Hobart chuckled softly to himself.

"Nothing like an inside view!" said he. "The up stairs angel often turns into a down stairs demon, eh? Ha! ha! ha! Paul, my boy, beware of brunettes. There's mischief behind the arch of those black brows. If you're determined to have a wife, take the one at the wash tub, the little girl who wanted to help her mother."

"I believe you are right, Uncle Hobart," said Paul.

* * * * * * *

"But tell me, Paul, how you came to choose me instead of Esther?" questioned the blue eyed bride as they stood together by the sea at Brighton the week after their wedding. "Esther is so much prettier, so much lovelier than me. Every one likes Esther better than they do me. And do you know, darling, I half think that Esther was just a little disappointed that you didn't prefer her?"

"Do you think so?" said Paul carelessly. "We can scarcely account for our preferences. Esther is very brilliant and beautiful, and when first we became acquainted I was fairly bewitched by her. But now I value the steady shining star of your love above all the will-o'-the-wisps in creation!"

But he never told her of his amateur sanitary inspection and Uncle Hobart's test of character.—London Tit-Bits.

Neatly Trapped.

Dr. Black, once the leading minister of Glasgow, and another clergyman, having a holiday in Cumberland, attended a little Scotch church and purposely went late and got into a remote corner of the church so that they might not be seen by the officiating minister. They learned, to their dismay, that they had been "spotted" when they heard the minister say in the intercessory prayers, "Lord, have mercy on thy ministering servants who have popped in on us so unexpectedly, one of whom will preach in the afternoon, and the other in the evening!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

The Present Moment.

Mezzofanti's Memory.

Cardinal Mezzofanti had a memory little short of miraculous. Dr. Russell, his biographer, says that the cardinal spoke with the greatest ease 30 languages; that he spoke fairly well 9; that he used occasionally, but not with any fluency, 11 more; that he spoke imperfectly 8, and that he could read 11 more. Taking, in addition, the number of dialects he used, some so diverse from the mother tongue as to constitute a different language, Dr. Russell says that the cardinal was master of no less than 111 different languages and dialects. His German was so excellent that he was taken for a native of Germany, while his French and English were equally pure. Dr. Tholuck heard him converse in German, Arabic, Spanish, Flemish, English, Latin, Greek, Swedish and Portuguese at one of the pope's receptions, and afterward Mezzofanti gave him an original poem in Persian and left him to take a lesson in Cornish. He knew several of the American Indian languages and nearly all the dialects of India.

Only His Buttons Left.

An instance of the great dissolving powers of sulphuric acid is furnished by an accident which recently occurred in the chemical factories at Mulhouse, Alsace. An operative was blown up into the air and fell into a trough filled about three feet deep with sulphuric acid, the temperature of which was found to be 91 degrees C. ten hours after the accident. The death of the man was only proved by the discovery of his caoutchouc respirator, muzzle, two porcelain buttons and other insoluble articles. Everything else had chemically combined with the acid.—London Engineer.

A MARVELOUS BLOSSOM.

Something About the Strange Flower of the Holy Ghost.

Many of the most curious and most beautiful flowers in the world are members of the orchid family, and among them all the most wonderful is the famous Espiritu Santo, or Flower of the Holy Ghost. Have you ever seen this marvelous blossom?

Some of you may perhaps in a greenhouse or in a collection of orchids, but it is a rare sight even there, and is seldom seen in all its beauty except in its native land. It was there that I saw it first, on the isthmus of Panama.

It is not a common plant, being found in certain sections only and in isolated clumps. It does not like high, dry soils, but low, marshy spots springing up from decayed logs or from crevices in the rocks.

To describe this beautiful flower, after a fashion, is easy enough, but fully to realize its peculiar loveliness and the marvelous accuracy of its shape one must see it. The larger and older bulbs frequently send up leaf stalks six or seven feet in height, and from these, which are jointed, broad lanceolated leaves are thrown out in pairs.

The plant is an annual, and in June, July and August the flower stalks start up from the base of the bulb, devoting all their energies to the formation of the buds. The buds are arranged on the stalks much like those of the hyacinth, the usual number for a well grown stalk to bear being from 12 to 15. The leaves are very pale green in color, as though in harmony with the delicate purity of the blossom.

The blossom is of alabaster whiteness, much like the old style English pulpit. This of itself is strikingly curious, but it fades into insignificance when one looks into the center of that strange blossom, for there, nestling in its very heart, is the perfect image of a dove. It requires no imagination to see it. No one could mistake it for anything else, for no human skill could fashion its shape more perfectly, no artist could adorn it with more delicate tints, and no perfumer could endow it with a more delicious fragrance.

Right in the cup of the blossom, with the snow white canopy about it, rests this wondrous image, its delicately molded wings drooping, half extended, at its side, its gold tinted head bent slightly forward, and its tiny crimson tipped bill almost touching its snowy breast.

And just as the figure of the dove itself is there, beyond dispute, so does an expression pervade the image, an expression that even the most careless cannot fail to notice, the very incarnation of humility and spiritual purity.

It is not in the least to be wondered at that the early Spanish Catholics should have paused awestruck before this strange dweller of the forests and bowed down before it, reverentially calling it the "Flor del Espiritu Santo," or Flower of the Holy Ghost. No wonder either that the still more superstitious Indians should have knelt before it, deeming even the ground whereon it grew and the air it perfumed as holy things.

So deeply was this feeling implanted in the hearts of the Indians, and so carefully was it handed down from generation to generation, that it has only been within a comparatively few years that collectors have been able to trace the precious bulbs to their native haunts.—Philadelphia Times.

An Amended "Character."

In Dresden female servants are required by the police regulations to keep a book, in which the mistress enters dates of engagement and dismissal, reason for dismissal, etc. An English lady dismissed a German servant for impertinence and entered in the book that she was discharged for rudeness, but was in every other respect a good servant. The girl came back and reported that the police ordered the remark concerning her rudeness to be erased. On the lady refusing to comply, she found herself summoned to the police court. She stood to her guns, however, like a good English woman and replied in effect, "Quod scripsi, scripsi." Upon this the official who heard the case observed that if she would not erase the remark the police would, and a slip of thick paper was forthwith pasted over the entry.—London Truth.

A Great Memory.

The Journal of Speculative Philosophy gives a remarkable instance of a farmer in Indiana who could remember what he had done on every day for 20 years. He was repeatedly tested by reference to the notes made on previous examinations, and never failed both to name the day of the week and to tell what occurred to him on that day. The words used in his narratives often varied, but he always had the events as he had mentioned them before.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev J Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich, we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at R R BELLAMY's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

LINCOLN'S APPARITION.

He Saw a Ghostly Image of Himself In a Looking Glass.

Mr. Noah Brooks, in his personal reminiscences of Lincoln in The Century, tells the following strange story:

On the day mentioned Lincoln narrated an incident the particulars of which I wrote out and printed directly after. These are his own words, as nearly as they could then be recalled:

"It was just after my election in 1860, when the news had been coming in thick and fast all day and there had been a great 'hurrah boys,' so that I was well tired out and went home to rest, throwing myself down on a lounge in my chamber. Opposite where I lay was a bureau with a swinging glass upon it" (and here he got up and placed furniture to illustrate the position), "and looking in that glass I saw myself reflected nearly at full length, but my face, I noticed, had two separate and distinct images, the tip of the nose of one being about three inches from the tip of the other. I was a little bothered, perhaps startled, and got up and looked in the glass, but the illusion vanished. On lying down again, I saw it a second time, plainer if possible than before, and then I noticed that one of the faces was a little paler—say five shades—than the other. I got up, and the thing melted away, and I went off, and in the excitement of the hour forgot all about it—nearly, but not quite, for the thing would once in awhile come up and give me a little pang as if something uncomfortable had happened.

"When I went home that night, I told my wife about it, and a few days afterward made the experiment again, when" (with a laugh) "sure enough the thing came again, but I never succeeded in bringing the ghost back after that, though I once tried very industriously to show it to my wife, who was somewhat worried about it. She thought it was a 'sign' that I was to be elected to a second term of office, and that the paleness of one of the faces was an omen that I should not see life through the last term."

This is a very remarkable story—a coincidence, we may say—to which some significance was given by the cruel death of the president soon after the beginning of his second term. I told Mrs. Lincoln the story and asked her if she remembered its details. She expressed surprise that Mr. Lincoln was willing to say anything about it, as he had up to that time refrained from mentioning the incident to anybody, and as she was firm in her belief that the optical illusion (which it certainly was) was a warning I never again referred to the subject to either the president or his wife.

Subsequently Lincoln's version of the story was confirmed by Private Secretary John Hay, who, however, was of the opinion that the illusion had been seen on the day of Lincoln's first nomination, and not, as I have said, on the day of his first election.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 30, 1895

SPOTS AND FUTURES

New York Sun's Review of the Cotton Market.—The Total Visible Supply.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The Sun says: Cotton rose 7 to 9 points, then receded and closed steady with a net advance of 5 to 6 points with sales of 59,400. Liverbool advanced 1-16d on the spot, with sales of 6,000 bales. Futures advanced 1 to 1¼ and closed very steady. New Orleans advanced 8 to 9 points and then lost part of the improvement. The port receipts were 977 against 1,315 this day last week and 1,838 last year. Spot cotton here was firm at 7c for middling uplands, with sales of 401 for exports and 934 for spinning. Wilmington declined ⅛c. The port exports for the day was 857. The Chronicle states that Northern spinners have taken thus far this season 1,983,686 bales, against 1,505,787 thus far last season. The total of this crop in sight is now 9,618,883 bales, against 7,314,682 at this time last season. The exports from the ports thus far this season are 6,617 bales, against 5,060,987 thus far last season. The world's visible supply is now 3,346,854, including 2,930,745 American, against 2,865,032 at this date last year, of which 2,325,832 were American.

To-day's features: The bulls in Liverpool were buying to-day, and the fact caused the rise there much to the disappointment of the bears here and to the surprise of even some of the bulls. The Liverpool advance was the most potent influence in lifting prices here. New Orleans was stronger, and there was a good spot trade here. The Continent bought futures and so did some local operators. The Chronicle reports as to the crop conditions were on the whole favorable, but they had no influence to-day, being merely confirmatory of private advices received during the week.

The outlook in Texas and Louisiana is still far from favorable, even though there has been some improvement within a week or ten days. And certainly the market responds readily to bullish news from any source. The bank clearings in this country during the past week have been over 65 per cent larger than during the same week last year and about the same as in the carresponding week of 1893, showing a surprising gain, not only as compared with the figures of last year, but also as compared with those of 1892. For a long period the 1894 and 1895 figures of bank clearings were far below those of 1892, and this week's comparison, therefore, shows in a very striking way, the great expansion of business in this countrp within a very short time. That is a bull point on raw cotton and cotton goods.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 3,346,854 bales, of which 2,930,754 are American, against 2,865,032 and 2,325,832 respectively last year. Receipts of cotton this week at all interior towns 4,011 bales. Receipts from the plantations 2,195 bales. Crop in sight 9,618,883 bales.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

September Wheat, Corn and Oats Closed Higher—Pork Products Firm at an Advance in Prices.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Wheat prices looked better by one cent at the close of to-day's session than they did at the opening. The improvement was the result of a misapprehension on the part of the local crowd, who sold on the early weakness, believing that the liquidation of July, which was still going on at the start would continue throughout the day. Unfortunately for them it appeared to cease at the end of the first half hour and the traders who were "short" did not find it easy to obtain wheat, with which to cover their sales, hence the recovery. The export clearances for the week from both coasts, were light. Holders found disappointment in them, and to that fact the early decline was partly due. September wheat opened from 71⅜c to 71⅞c, sold between 72⅝c and 71⅛c, closing at 72⅜c—with the gain above mentioned. Cash wheat ruled steady, but closed firm with the futures, the trading being very light.

Corn—Some crop reports on corn from Kansas, received to-day, confirmed the impression of brilliant prospects in that section. Unless something unforeseen happens there is scarcely a doubt that the yield for 1895 will be one of the largest on record. September corn opened at 48⅛c, sold between 47⅞c and 48⅛@48⅝c, closing at 48⅛c, ⅛c higher than yesterday. Cash corn was steady, closing firm.

Oats—The main feature in oats was similar to that of wheat and corn and consisted of both long and short property.

Provisions—Light arrivals of hogs are expected during July, in anticipation of which falling off brokers look for better prices in provisions. The hog market to-day was firm in connection with which the rally in wheat, corn and oats produced a strong sentiment at the close. September pork closed 17½c higher than yesterday. September lard 5c higher and September ribs 7½c higher.

A MANIAC FARMER.

Killed His Wife and Mortally Wounded a Boy.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 29.—A white farmer named Sims was at work in a field near Huntersville, 16 miles from here yesterday afternoon when some boys passing called to him saying something which he construed as an insult. He became angry and made toward them when one of them told him they meant no harm. He started to return to his field when the boldest of them told him he had better attend to his own business. He stopped, and one of them threw a rock at him. Sims drew a pistol and fired on the boy, inflicting what is considered a mortal wound. He then ran toward his house, and his wife conceiving that there was danger in him, fled. He overtook her in a field and shot her in the body, then putting his pistol to her temple blew out her brains. Sims then went to Huntersville and surrendered to a magistrate, who sent him on to jail here. He gave as his reason for killing his wife that he knew he would be hung or sent to the penitentiary for killing the boy, and could not bare to be separated from his wife.

GOVERNMENT FINANCES.

EXPENDITURES AND RECEIPTS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR.

A Deficiency of Over Forty Million Dollars—Due Largely to the Elimination of the Income Tax from the Revenues.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Jue 29.—The fiscal year 1894–95 ended to-day and from official and semi-official figures, obtained at the Treasury Department, which will vary more than $250,000 either way from the figures finally announced, the Government receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year can be stated.

The receipts are as follows: 1894–95, $312,500,000; 1893–94, $297,722,019; 1892–93, $386,819,628.

The expenditures for the same year are as follows: 1894–95, $356,000,000; 1893–4, $367,525,279; 1892–93, $382,477,954.

The deficit for the past two fiscal years were as follows: 1894–5, $43,500,000; 1893–4, $69,803,260.

For the year 1892–3, the excess of receipts over revenue amounted to only $2,394,674. Prior to that year there had been an excess in receipts over expenditures for every fiscal year since 1865, the lowest excess in all those years up to 1892–3 having been in the year 1874, when the receipts exceeded the expenditures by only two millions, three hundred and forty-four thousand, eight hundred and eighty-two dollars.

For the present fiscal year ended today, Secretary Carlisle on Dec. 3rd, 1894, estimates that the deficiency would be $20,000,000. As shown by the official figures this estimate was more than $23,000,000 out of the way, due largely to the elimination of the income tax from revenue. Had the House bill with sugar, iron, and coal placed on the free list, become a law, the actual deficit would have been over $63,000,000.

On February 2nd, 1895, Secretary Carlisle in an estimate furnished to Congress, stated that for the calendar year 1895, the surplus revenue over expenditures would amount to $22,563,023. Six months of this period have now passed and the deficit for this six months is $16,750,000.

Assistant Secretary Curtis in a published statement estimated that the deficit up to December 1st, 1895, would be $35,000,000. This estimate was made after the income tax had been declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court. It was based upon the increased appropriations made by the last Congress, which go into effect July 1st, and which include five million dollars for the sugar bounty and increased interest charges on account of the several bonds issued aggregating $162,400,000. For this month of July, which begins Monday it is estimated by the Treasury if receipts continue normal, that the expenditures will exceed the receipts by about $12,000,000 to $13,000,000, July being an interest-paying month and the payments on account of pensions being also especially heavy. For the month of June just ended the receipts have exceeded the expenditures by nearly $2,000,000 the first month since last August when this has been done.

MONEY MATTERS.

An Improved Condition of Business Shown by the Statement of New York Banks.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The New York Financier says this week: The amount of surplus cash in the New York banks was reduced $2,318,325 during the week ending June 29th, the total now standing $34,225,925. No better illustration of the improved condition of business is needed than to recall the fact that the excess reserve for the corresponding week last year was $74,794,325, with total loans of $470,044,100. The increase in loans, therefore, has been $43,378,200 and the decrease in the reserve $40,378,200.

The present loan volume has exceeded all previous records, and a few weeks continuance of statements such as have been issued by the Clearing House banks lately, would, under normal conditions, send up the money rate to a figure more in harmony with the situation. Unfortunately for the banks, however, such an advance is impossible. The decrease of $3,324,000 in specie and legals for the current week, coming in the face of the fact that interior money is still being added to the deposits of the New York banks, was due to the bond syndicate, which used over six million dollars in completing its payments to the Treasury. Had it not been for that the reserve would have shown an increase.

Another circumstance which will operate adversely on the money rate, is the fact that the bond syndicate owes the banks some eighteen or twenty millon dollars for gold advanced, and this is to be paid shortly.

It is not expected that the July dividend payments, which will be unusually heavy this month, will be large enough to affect the market, under such conditions, and the anonmal of record-breaking loans and minimum rates of interest will probably last for some time.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The Conference at Chattanooga—Sunrise Prayer Meeting on Lookout Mountain—Proceedings of the Assembly Meeting.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., June 29.—Three thousand people attended the sunrise prayer meeting held on Lookout Mountain this morning. Every train on both roads from 2 a. m. to daylight was crowded. The greatest fervor and Methodist fire marked the devotions, which was led by Col. Frank A. Hardin, of Freeport, Ills. The Illinois delegation at a meeting to-day unanimously elected Dr. S. A. Steel, general secretary of the Southern branch, a member of the Illinois conference of the League.

Rev. W. B. Murray, of Jackson, Miss., presided over the assembly meeting in the tent this morning. Rev. H. L. Kindig, of Lebanan, Indiana, leading the devotions, Rev. Charles Stuart, of Chicago, spoke first on "Spirit of Methodism," followed by S. B. Turrentine, of Winston, N. C., in line with a strong under-current against classical music. The latter speaker said:

"We must guard against the use of secular hymns as sung by a Godless chorus." The Park Sisters, cornetists, of Boston, are favorites with the Conference. "Methodist fervor" was ably discussed by Charles A. Littlefield, of Watertown, Mass., who furnished an apt illustration of his subject. General Secretary S. V. Crews, of Canada, spoke of "Catholicity," taking the place of N. W. Roswell, who was absent, while Rev. G. W. Kirby, of Toronto, closed with a solo. Toronto and Washington are represented by strong delegations, pulling for the next place of meeting.

Dr. Buchanan, who is in Sing Sing (N. Y.) prison awaiting the death penalty, sent a long telegram to the British Ambassador at Washington, urging him to interfere in his case. The Ambassador has, however, looked into the matter once, and declined to take any action.

The Modern Way

LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT TO BE DISSOLVED JULY TENTH.

The Unionists Will Have a Solid Majority in the New Parliament—The Chinese Loan—Americans in London—Queen Victoria Due in Paris—Death of Prof. Huxley—The Yacht Valkyrie Defeated by the Britannia.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, June 29.—Official calculations fix the time for the dissolution of Parliament at July 10th.

The political character of the new Parliament, as determined by an impartial forecast, gives the Unionists a solid majority. The most sanguine Liberal estimate, as published by the Westminster Gazette, admits that the Unionists will gain 32 seats, which means 64 votes on a division and entails a steady majority in Parliament of 64. The Liberals enter the lists with a feeling of despondency, and a conviction that they will meet such a defeat as will establish a Unionist Government in power for the next seven years.

According to the Statist, a number of Anglo-German firms are arranging the Chinese loan, which a short time ago it was thought would be issued by French financiers under the guarante of Russia. The Anglo-German firms think that a loan of £32,000,000 at six per cent. will be as much as is safe to ask inventors to take at present.

The American season in London is at its full height and is far and away the largest, gayest and altogether the most successful of any ever before known. The best hotels are jammed with American guests and in the Thames Valley, especially in the Henley regions, all of the boarding houses and available villas have been captured by Americans. Among those new features of amusement in the American colony is an American driving meet, which is announced to be held in Hyde Park on July 4th, and in which American buggies, carriages and vehicles of all sorts will take part. The light vehicles will head the procession and will drive around the park for the benefit of the crowd. It is expected that a fashionable throng will be present to see the show.

The Cabinet crisis has seemed to improve the Queen's health and renews her energy. She is surprisingly vigorous in seeing the Ministers and discussing new appointments. It is said she arranged her entourage by the unconcealed pleasure she manifested at recieving the dispatch announcing the resignation of the Roseberry Government. Her Majesty immediately wired the news to Empress Frederick and to the Czar. The Queen is aware that the Prince of Wales made a wager with the Czar that the Roseberry Government would outlast the month of June.

PARIS, June 29.—A duel was fought to-day between M. Gadaud, ex-Minister of Agriculture, and M. Leon Mirman, Radical Socialist, member of the Chamber of Deputies. M. Gadaud was slightly wounded.

LONDON, June 29.—Professor Huxley, who has been ill for some time, died at 3.45 this afternoon. After a slight rally last night Professor Huxley's condition grew rapidly worse and he fell into a state of complete exhaustion. His mind was clear to the last, and his death was painless.

CRAIGMORE, June 29.—The Prince of Wales' cutter defeated Valkrie III today on time allowance. The new speeder apparently had the first prize secured, when, on the last leg of the course she lost the wind, and the Britannia, favored by a slant, picked up several miles on her, finishing one minute and forty-nine seconds astern of her. The race, if it may be so dignified, lasted more than nine hours. Valkyrie III finished at 7.37.26, and the Britannia at 7.39.15. The Ailsa gave up at the Large Mark, and was towed home.

THE PRIZE FIGHTERS.

Dixon and Plimmer Not Likely to Meet in the Ring at Dallas—The Corbett-Fitzsimmons Fight an Assured Fact.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 29.—It is not probable that George Dixon and Billy Plimmer will meet in the ring at Dallas. When the offer of $7,600 was tendered Dixon, he suggested that the weight be 116 pounds and this condition was cabled to Plimmer.

The following cablegram received to-day seems to settle all chances of a meeting with the boys: "Plimmer says he cannot give the weight proposed, but will fight Dixon at 115 pounds, to weigh in at the ringside. Other conditions satisfactory. Inform Davies."

The last two words mean that Plimmer wants Parson Davies to act as his manager.

Tom O'Rourke was at the Sheepshead Bay race track this afternoon, and when shown the above cable message he shook his head doubtfully. He said Dixon cannot get down to 115 pounds without weakening himself so that he would have little chance of winning. "We cannot accept any such terms as Plimmer suggests."

AUSTIN, TEXAS, June 29.—The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is now an assured fact inasmuch as an occupation tax was to-day issued for the fight by the State Comptroller. He became mixed up in it in this manner: The tax collector at Dallas was offered $500 by the management of the Dallas Athletic Club to let the fight come off there, that being the amount prescribed by law for glove contests. The collector referred the matter to the Comptroller and that gentleman to-day issued the receipt for the $500, and the fight can now come off without fear or hindrance, as the State has in this receipt put its official stamp on a permission to conduct the fight.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Louis Blanc, Ex-Treasurer of the B'Nai B'Rith Society.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Louis Blanc, ex-Treasurer of the B'Nai B'Rith Society, committed suicide yesterday by asphyxiation. Blanc was discoverd to be short $13,000 in his accounts some months ago. Blanc was not prosecuted but the society failed to re-elect him as treasurer. A recent examination of his books increased the original deficit to $17,000.

AFFAIRS IN CUBA.

People Leaving the Island—The Insurgent Leader, Mello, Said to be a Prisoner.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Among the passengers of the Ward Line steamer Santiago, which arrived this morning from Santiago, Cienfuegos, and Nassau, are fifty-eight passengers from Santiago, many of whom are of the best Cuban families of that place. They are leaving Santiago because of the disturbed condition of the country. The insurgents are so active in the vicinity of Santiago that the Spanish authorities are placing all of the inhabitants under strict surveillance. Many of the people are leaving to avoid the annoyance and discomforts brought upon them by the aforesaid measures.

MADRID, June 29.—Advices have been received from Havana stating that the insurgent leader Maceo has been captured and is now in prison.

FATAL AFFRAY.

One of the Doorkeepers of the House of Representatives Killed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—James A. Newsom, of Memphis, Tenn., for many years one of the doorkeepers of the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., was fatally assaulted last Thursday night by Lewis Berry, at a Summer boarding house, at Carlin Springs, Va., and died. Newsom had been drinking heavily and assaulted his wife, who left the house and returned to Washington. Newsome continued his violence, and in a struggle with young Berry, who was a visitor, was hit with a base ball bat and his skull was fractured. Medical aid was summoned but he never recovered consciousness, and died yesterday.

Things We Understand, And Things We Do Not Understand.

The Depositor in the Wilmington Savings and Trust Company

Does not understand how the decline in price of silver since 1873 caused the price of cotton to decline, when the price of cotton declined more rapidly for several years before '73 (when silver did not decline materially) than after '73, and was lower several years before the war than at present, though silver was twice as high at that time as it is at present.
